Introduction

The Finance Club of the Department of MBA organized an interactive session titled “Rapid Fire Round on Finance Terminology” on 16th September 2025. The objective of the event was to strengthen the financial knowledge of students while providing a platform to test their quick thinking and subject awareness in a competitive yet enjoyable format.

Description

The session was conducted as a quick-response activity where participants were asked finance-related terms and concepts, and they had to answer instantly. This format tested their spontaneous recall, presence of mind, and ability to explain finance vocabulary with clarity and confidence. Students showcased their awareness of various topics such as banking, investment, taxation, corporate finance, markets, and accounting. The lively discussions, instant responses, and peer learning created an energetic environment. The active participation of the audience further added to the excitement and learning value of the event. Dr. Veto Dey, Faculty Coordinator of the Finance Club, appreciated the spirited involvement of the students and highlighted the importance of practicing financial terminology for professional growth.

Conclusion

The Rapid Fire Round on Finance Terminology turned out to be a valuable learning experience that blended knowledge with fun. It helped participants sharpen their financial acumen, boosted confidence in quick decision-making, and fostered greater interest in finance. The Finance Club looks forward to organizing more such engaging activities in the future to enrich the learning journey of MBA students.
