The IT Club organized an individual photography activity under the theme “This one feels like my masterpiece.” The event aimed to encourage students to explore their creativity, observation skills, and technical expertise in photography.

Each participant was asked to present one photograph clicked by them and share in a few lines why they considered it their best capture. The entries reflected a wide range of perspectives—nature, culture, emotions, and everyday life—highlighting the diverse talents of the students.

The activity not only enhanced students’ interest in photography but also gave them a platform to express their thoughts visually and verbally. It was a successful initiative, fostering creativity, confidence, and digital skills among the participants.

Conclusion:

The IT Club’s activity “This one feels like my masterpiece” was well-received and proved to be an enriching experience. It inspired students to appreciate the art of photography and to look at the world through a creative lens.
